The FFTR is set by the Federal Reserve and is published at federalreserve.gov. As of September 17, 2026, the FFTR is 4.00%.*

Short Selling:

If you have an open short position in your account, Public Investing can charge a stock borrow fee based on the prevailing borrow rate of the stock. The borrow rate fluctuates and changes throughout the day. The daily accrued borrow cost is calculated based on the largest short position held open each day, multiplied by the end of day market price multiplied by the quoted borrow rate divided by 360.[7]

Public Reserve Membership:

Public Investing offers Public Reserve ("Reserve"), an optional paid membership program. The terms of Reserve, including its match benefits, are described in the Public Reserve Agreement. Reserve fees are charged on the day you join and then every 30 days (for monthly memberships) or once a year (for annual memberships) until you cancel. Public Investing may change Reserve pricing on at least 30 days' notice.

Membership Type	Fee Amount
Monthly membership	$20 per month
Annual membership	$200 per year aggregate of the determined daily fee for each day in that calendar month (less any transaction fees as described above).

Section 4
Special Account Types

Investment advisory services for Generated Assets Accounts, Direct Index Accounts, and Treasury Accounts (collectively, "Advisory Accounts") are provided by Public Advisors LLC ("Public Advisors"), an SEC-registered investment adviser. For Generated Assets Accounts, the annual Management Fee is 0.49%.

For Direct Index Accounts, the annual Management Fee is 0.19%.

All such brokerage fees: (1) are found in the rest of this Fee Schedule; (2) are separate and distinct from the Management Fee; and (3) shall be borne by the customer.

If you are a Reserve member, Public Investing also funds matches on eligible deposits into your Advisory Accounts, as described in the Public Reserve Agreement. Once credited, matched amounts become part of your Advisory Account and are included in the market value on which the Management Fee is calculated. The Reserve subscription fee is separate and distinct from the Management Fee.

A Treasury Account with an aggregate value between $25,001 and $100,000 will be charged the Tier 1 fee on the first $25,000 in assets and the Tier 2 fee on the balance of the assets.
